Studying at the University of Vienna

INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS & BUSINESS

Cultural Management

This postgraduate certificate course aims to provide conceptual knowledge and applied skills for the management of cultural and social projects. It is designed to bridge best practice and inspirational theory as well as to anticipate trends and explore experimental formats. Participants will establish contacts and will also develop projects in relevant fields. In order to be accepted, participants have to hold an academic degree in cultural or social sciences or a high school degree (GCA A-Levels) combined with experience in related fields.

International Studies

The Master of Advanced International Studies is a two-year academic program that focusses on the advanced study of politics and international relations, international economics, history, international and European law. It is based on the principles of multidisciplinary, internationality, knowledge of current affairs and participatory learning. The aim is to gain the ability to analyze and understand European and international development processes. Graduates will have excellent career prospects for working in international organizations and enterprises, public or diplomatic services, as well as in research.

COMMUNICATION & MEDIA

Data Steward

Research data, as valuable research results, require professional management. Comprehensive research data management is therefore becoming increasingly important. Data stewards operate at the interface between scientists and scholars, and research infrastructure and help to bridge the gap between these two areas. They support researchers in processing data in a sustainable way and carry out needs assessments and requirements engineering. This certificate course will help the participants to acquire knowledge, expertise and key competences to perform tasks as data stewards in research institutions.

European and International Business Law

The LL.M. program focuses on the European and international legal framework for internationally operating enterprises and the relevant economic governance issues. A special emphasis is put on European Union business law as well as the enterprises' legal position, when doing business within the European market or internationally. The program is of special interest for persons who are affiliated with or plan to work for internationally operating business law firms or enterprises, government agencies, business lobbies or any other European and international organizations.

Human Rights

The one-year (60 ECTS Credits) postgraduate program “Human Rights” has a clear jurisprudential profile. It will provide for insights to theoretical legal questions and also convey practical skills that are necessary for working in the field of human rights. Based on the academic excellence of the University of Vienna and on the high reputation of the Ludwig Boltzmann Institute of Fundamental and Human Rights for conducting applied research, the program can best be described with the words: “Where Science Meets Practice!” The master program is aimed at law graduates and employed persons, e.g. in public administration, academia, the education sector, NGOs and civil society or the private sector (corporate lawyers, attorneys, legal trainees, consultants) who want to specialize in human rights.

International Law

The postgraduate LL.M. degree course in International Law at the University of Vienna is a 1-year full-time or a 2-year part-time program. It aims at deepening the knowledge of structures and specific issues in international law – such as: Fundamental Issues of International Law, International Economic Law, International Organizations and International Dispute Settlement. Students acquire knowledge and skills that are important for the practice of international law, in international organizations, governmental agencies, as well as in internationally operating law firms and enterprises.
